Transamerica Retirement Solutions Appoints Feldmaier as New Division Vice President

Bill Feldmaier named Division Vice President for Transamerica's Central Region Retirement Plan Sales

Transamerica Retirement Solutions announced today the appointment of Bill Feldmaier as division vice president for the company's central region retirement plan sales. Feldmaier will lead Transamerica's team of central regional vice presidents for all retirement plan sales activities in the small-plan market. He will report to Jason Crane, executive vice president and managing director of retirement plan sales.

"Bill is a valued team player who will support our sales force in offering expert guidance to financial professionals and retirement plan sponsors," said Jason Crane. "We are delighted to have a proven sales leader of his caliber join the Transamerica team. We are confident that his experience, leadership and ability to establish successful business partnerships will help Transamerica to increase retirement readiness for more U.S. employees."

Feldmaier has dedicated fourteen years to the retirement services industry, and has worked both as a successful wholesaler and in national sales leadership roles. Most recently, he served as national sales director of intermediary sales for CUNA Mutual Retirement Solutions.

Feldmaier replaces Transamerica veteran Dan Long, who will now serve as regional vice president for midwest institutional retirement plan sales, reporting to Michael Wannell, division vice president for institutional markets in the western region.
